

Beispiel eines Netztechnik-Zeitplans für die Herstellung eines Geschäftsberichts

This network diagram was developed by the author for use in organizing and scheduling the activities and events involved in producing the 1963 Globe-Union annual report. As defined for formal system such as PERT and CPM, "activity" is the effort required to achieve an end result which is referred to as an "event." Key words in designating events are "begin, prepare, approve, determine, select," etc. This working diagram indicates the flow of events and their relationship. Deadline dates listed across the top depart from the more detailed time elements established by CPM and PERT techniques. Although similar in appearance, the network designed for the 1962 annual report was not as complete as the chart reproduced here in this spread.
