

Publishing with Duncker & Humblot

Publishing with Duncker & Humblot

The Publishing House

The traditional scientific publisher Duncker & Humblot looks back on a history of over 200 years and is one of the oldest owner-managed publishing houses in Germany.

Every year, it publishes some 300 scientific monographs and anthologies in more than 150 series and more than 15 scientific journals and yearbooks. It has more than 12,500 available titles in the fields of law and political economics, economics and social sciences, history, political science, literature and philosophy.

The publisher's »Duncker & Humblot eLibrary« is an e-book platform for institutions, libraries and private customers offering e-books of almost all new titles and many standard works. Furthermore, through »E-Books on Demand (EoD)« we are able to make digitally available almost our entire backlist. All journals are also available as online editions.

As part of the »Duncker & Humblot reprints« project, long-out-of-print classics from our company's first 150 years are made available, from our foundation in 1798 until the end of the Second World War; these titles are available both in printed and electronic form.

Offer & Contract

We provide you with a publication offer that is tailored to your work. For this, we need an open text file of your work. If it is an academic thesis (postdoctoral qualification (Habilitation) or PhD thesis), please also submit a copy of the assessments. In the case of PhD theses, a publishing contract often entitles you to use your academic title before you graduate.

We will find a suitable way of publishing your work – either in one of our publication series or as a stand-alone publication. You will benefit from the peer review process of our prestigious series.

We will be happy to advise you on grants and subsidies that you can apply for and provide information about the application procedures of VG WORT.

Editing & Production

We create a professional layout for your publication. All you need to do is incorporate our »general guidelines« into the text file of your work (just a few formalities). We are of course happy to help you with this. Our production department then takes care of the typesetting for you.

Once the work has been typeset and checked by you, we will once again formally edit it.

We only use high-quality materials to print your publication, and we pride ourselves on excellent workmanship.

In addition to the print edition, we also produce a professional e-book version of your work.

Throughout the production process, you have a personal contact person in the production department who provides advice and support.

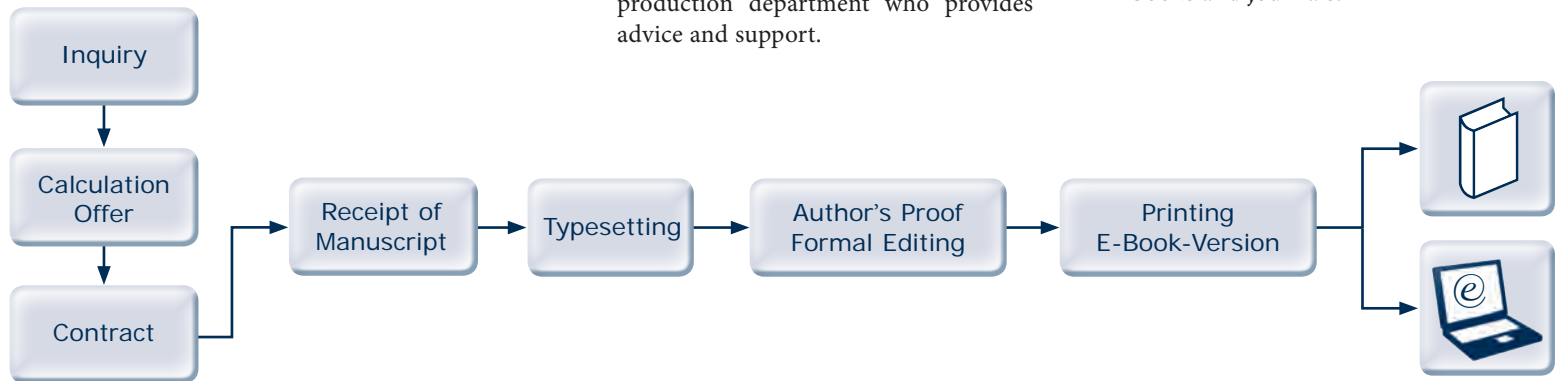

Sales & Marketing

Your publication is accompanied by extensive marketing activities: We promote your work with a personal advertising leaflet, in newsletters, print and electronic catalogues, advertising campaigns or direct mailings or emailings. Through systematic reviews and press work, your work receives due attention in the regional and national press and in specialist publications.

We present your publication at book fairs and topic- and discipline-specific conferences and conventions.

We ensure that your work is highly visible and always available, and we organise the worldwide distribution of the print and e-book version.

As a Duncker & Humblot author you are entitled to a discount on all our books and journals.

Do you have questions?
Please contact us:

Dr. Andreas Beck

Acquisitions Editor
Tel. +49 (0)30 790006-47
beck@duncker-humblot.de

General contact

E-Mail: verlag@duncker-humblot.de
Tel.: +49 (0)30 790006-19

Duncker & Humblot GmbH
attn: Mrs. Diana Güssow
Carl-Heinrich-Becker-Weg 9
12165 Berlin
Germany